

Financial Literacy Resources

- Federal Student Aid (www.studentaid.gov) – U.S. Department of Education’s office of Federal Student Aid’s website that serves as the source for free information, guidance, and tools for federal student assistance.
- 1-800-4-FED-AID – Toll-free phone number for the Federal Student Aid Information Center (FSAIC). FSAIC staff can answer student aid questions related to federal student aid programs and the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA).
- MyMoney.gov (www.mymoney.gov) – The U.S. Financial Literacy and Education Commission’s website dedicated to teaching the basics about financial education. The site offers valuable information on budgeting, credit management, saving and investing, financial planning, financial aid, and loan obligations.
- Federal Trade Commission (www.ftc.gov) – The Federal Trade Commission’s website to prevent fraud, deception, and unfair business practices. This site gives examples of key questions to ask when considering a credit counselor and collects complaints about consumer fraud and identity theft.
- Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (www.fdic.gov) – U.S. government website that has articles on how to become a smarter, safer user of financial services that will protect and stretch your earnings.
- Navigating Your Financial Future (www.navigatingyourfuture.org) – Florida Department of Education’s website that offers comprehensive debt management tools and multiple resources to promote a positive credit profile and deeper understanding of budgeting skills.
- Institute for Financial Literacy (www.financiallit.org) – The Institute for Financial Literacy’s website, which contains a variety of interactive worksheets, links to available programs, and resources for connecting with financial counselors and educators.
- College Savings Plan Network (www.collegesavings.org) – National non-profit association’s website that provides detailed information about 529 college savings plans, nationwide comparisons of 529 plans, and a college cost calculator.
- The Young Americans Center for Financial Education (<http://www.yacenter.org/>) promotes the financial literacy of young people. The center offers real life experiences and hands-on programs to help students build life skills, work skills, and financial self-sufficiency.

- Jump$tart Coalition for Personal Financial Literacy (<http://www.jumpstart.org/>) maintains a clearinghouse of resources that seek to promote financial literacy.

This page intentionally left blank.